Disclaimer:

Our Semicha program is offered only to those who profess to lead an orthodox lifestyle in accordance to the traditional interpretation of Halachic texts by Orthodox Jewry. This means that all Semicha participants attest to follow their lives strictly according to the rulings of Shulchan Aruch and its classical accepted commentaries. If strict Orthodoxy is not your philosophy or you lead a lifestyle different than that which is explained above, this program is not for you. If a student is found to be leading a lifestyle contrary to Orthodox values they will be automatically dismissed from the course. Our program reserves the right to revoke the Semicha of any participant or alumni who is found to be leading a life contrary to Torah values, even much later on in their life.

Tuition for Self-Study Track

How much does the program cost?

A. Self-study track

$1,800 for the entire set of four courses, plus a practical Halachic topic course, and Semicha! You pay as you progress in the program.

The breakdown of the costs:

$300 per course subject [there are 4 subjects total for achieving Semicha].

- The Shabbos course is however $500 [Split into two sections. You can pay $250 as you do each section].

$200 for the Practical Halachic topics course [mandatory]

$100 for the final exam [per exam]

Total: $400 per subject for 4 subjects + $200 for Practical Halacha course=$1800.

When do I pay?

You pay as you go along, so its only $300 to start your first course. Meaning to register to the course and receive your username/password, the workbook and textbook is $300. Upon successful completion of the course, you pay $100 for the oral exam. At the completion of the oral exam you then move on to the next course, with the next payment of $300, and so on and so forth until the completion of all four courses, plus the Topics in practical Halacha course. At the conclusion of all four courses you receive your Semicha certificate and have paid a total of $1800.
